
SIDE BY SIDE TOGETHER

Boldly moving our mission into the future.

URSULINE SISTERS OF CLEVELAND

2016-2017 ANNUAL REPORT

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Friends,

Can you name this familiar tune?
Don't know what's comin' tomorrow
Maybe it's trouble and sorrow
But we'll travel the road sharin' our load, side by side

Congratulations if you correctly identified it as Side by Side.

Musician and composer Harry Woods wrote Side by Side in 1927. When you consider that just two years later our country would be plunged into the Great Depression, the words take on an even more profound meaning. They remind us to treasure our relationships.

Woods was able to capture the essence of human relationships in lyrics like Just so long as we're together, it doesn't matter at all. The simplicity of these words is at the heart of all of our partnerships. We are stronger together in the best of times and in the challenging times. And together we have accomplished amazing works…for the honor and glory of God.

This has been an exciting year for the Ursuline Sisters as we broke ground for our future home and inaugurated the next chapter of our Ursuline story. This admittedly bold plan for the future of our property will relieve us of structures that no longer serve the congregation, so that we might better meet sisters' needs and the ever-evolving needs of those around us. The times in which we find ourselves demand a freedom to risk with bold faith. And we do so, clinging together with bonds of charity, as our foundress Angela Merici encouraged us. There will be sacrifices, but together in faith and love, all is possible.

As women of bold faith, we will be there, side by side in prayer and good works with others who promote faith, dignity, peace and justice in a world anguished by war, poverty and natural disasters.

Clearly we are living in challenging times and our world is sorely in need of a healing and hopeful presence. As women of bold faith, we will be there, side by side in prayer and good works with others who promote faith, dignity, peace and justice in a world anguished by war, poverty and natural disasters.

The Ursuline Sisters thank you not only for your generous financial support over the past year, but even more for your belief in us and for your partnership in our Mission. All is gift. May God continue to bless you as abundantly as you have blessed us. And may God's Spirit ever guide us, as together we forge a hope-filled and fruitful future, traveling and working…side by side.

Gratefully,

Sister Susan

SIDE BY SIDE TOGETHER:

Boldly moving our mission into the future.

Since 1535, when Angela Merici gathered with a varied group of women to form her Company of St. Ursula, her daughters have known and appreciated those who have boldly journeyed side by side with them to further God's mission into the future.

In 1850, four Ursulines and one laywoman companion came to a new frontier at the invitation of Bishop Amadeus Rappe to offer education to the Catholics in the Diocese of Cleveland. They ministered to a variety of people by providing Catholic education to the children of the diocese. As these institutions and ministries grew, many others joined them in their endeavor to further God's mission into the future.

Today, the Ursulines of Cleveland are living that future. And in the spirit of St. Angela, we are moving God's mission boldly forward with many who walk beside us in hope and grace. You will find herein examples of those who walk side by side with us with the goal of furthering God's mission. Those who journey with us are many and varied in their backgrounds, their connections to the Ursulines and their careers. Yet we have become friends and co-workers in the "fields of the Lord."

In this issue of our Annual Report, you will meet two women who discovered that their differing careers as teachers are bearing fruit in their work as tutors for the Ursuline Institute of Learning. They both share a common bond: Ursulines who have been a strong influence in their lives. You will also meet two gentlemen, an architect and a construction company vice-president, who have come from the world of design and brick and mortar to construct a new home for the Ursuline Sisters, and who have discovered that they are also building new relationships with the Ursulines. And finally, you will find that sisters from two different communities minister so well together at Regina Health Center because they see themselves as part of one family.

You will also find in this publication the lists of donors, committee members, boards, friends and families who participate in our ministries, our service, and our events. As always, there is the list of many wonderful and generous volunteers who walk with us every day. How blessed and grateful we are to have so many with us side by side, even for the daily steps we take together! Our gratitude overflows into prayer for all of you. Thank you! You are all our rock of support.

This past year marks a milestone on our journey together: a capital campaign Bold Faith | Building a Future to finance a new residence for the Ursuline Sisters, one that is more cost effective than our current Ursuline Educational Center, and one that will be sustainable for the sisters' life and ministry in the future. These pages list many who were generous in joining us on this adventure during the last fiscal year. We pray daily for each of you, and know that many more will join us along the way. We are truly blessed and deeply grateful. In the following pages, you will see what was accomplished in the past fiscal year for the capital campaign. Our friends and supporters continue to amaze us!

We Ursulines may not know all the twists and turns in the path ahead of us, but of one thing we are certain: We are blessed by many who dare to accompany us side by side together, boldly moving our mission into the future.

"And in the spirit of St. Angela, we are moving God's mission boldly forward with many who walk beside us in hope and grace."

Bold Faith | Building a Future
Campaign for the Ursuline Sisters of Cleveland

"Merici Crossings." This is the name we Ursuline Sisters of Cleveland have given our new residence emerging now on the Pepper Pike property facing Fairmount Boulevard and just south of the current motherhouse.

In December 2016 we launched the Bold Faith | Building a Future capital campaign to help fund the construction of Merici Crossings. With bold faith in God who has guided us since arriving in Cleveland in 1850, we are building more than a new residence – we are building a future.

After months of planning with architects, land planners, neighbors and civic leaders, we broke ground for Merici Crossings on June 6, 2017. Those gathered for the simple blessing of the grounds and prayers for the safekeeping of the construction crew were first to hear some great news. The Moran Family Foundation is offering to match dollar-for-dollar every new gift or pledge made between June 6 and December 6. Every gift in this six-month window doubles in value.

Long before the campaign launch or the beginning of construction, and after years of prayer and conversation, we came to realize that the motherhouse that holds many wonderful memories for us was no longer suited for our Ursuline community life and ministry. We invited experts in finance, construction, fundraising, health care and communication to journey with us into an exciting future. They have been faithful companions and wise advisors along the way, walking with us side by side.

The new Ursuline residence will certainly be a "crossings" where sisters of different talents and histories come together to live, pray and minister to others. It is also where we will encounter family, friends, neighbors, alumni and benefactors. In addition to the new residence, the wooded property will be preserved as a quiet haven of nature while other parcels will be developed consistent with the Ursuline spirit of welcome and care for those who are in need. That's what we hope people readily recall about the sisters – feeling cared for and valued.

It is a joy and privilege to be working side by side with such committed collaborators who share our bold faith and hope for the future.

– Sister Susan Bremer, Leadership Team Member

The gifts I have received from the sisters along this journey far exceed the assistance I may be providing as campaign counsel.

– Bob Hotz, American City Bureau Inc.

All are invited to walk side by side with us in this Bold Faith | Building a Future campaign, to be companions on the journey forward. Take a moment to see more than names on these pages. Let us celebrate you coming together with us as companions at Merici Crossings.

To see the current total raised for the Capital Campaign, please check our webpage: https://www.ursulinesisterscampaign.org/

There is no building more important to be involved with than a home. It is both humbling and satisfying to be assisting the sisters with their new home.

Side by Side at the Ursuline Institute of Learning

Marianne Sheridan, Sister Susan Mary, Dolores Pinchot

If Dolores Pinchot and Marianne Sheridan have anything in common, it's not only their love for teaching but their life journey with the Ursulines. These two educators have been engaged for a number of years in helping students in the Ursuline Institute of Learning (UIL), a tutoring service for anyone needing assistance in understanding classwork and developing learning skills. To them, it isn't just a job; it's a ministry they share with the Ursuline Sisters. And their connections with the Ursulines go deep into their histories.

Marianne Sheridan was educated by Ursulines since she moved to Cleveland in 1962 and started school at St. Ann grade school (now Communion of Saints). She holds fond memories of Sisters St. Ann, Angela Nihil, Mercia, and Eileen Mary. Attending Beaumont High School put her in connection with more Ursulines, including: Sisters Irene Charette, Marie Michelle, Marilyn Story, Ellen Themes, and Sister John Mary who was principal of Beaumont High School at the time. Sister was also moderator of the Mother's Guild, and Marianne's mother was the president. They formed a fast and close friendship, and Sister John Mary became a lifelong family friend.

When Marianne moved back to Cleveland after attending college, she married and had four children. Eventually she returned to teaching, working at Gesu School with Sister Linda Martin as her principal.

Marianne's youngest daughter needed individual help after 3rd grade, and she found it at the UIL with Sisters John Mary and Mary Dolors, both of whom tutored her daughter into the 4th grade. (Her daughter eventually graduated college and now works as a library aide and a tutor of English as a second language.) When Marianne finished her career at Gesu School, Sister John Mary invited her to tutor for the UIL. Marianne still tutors and loves working one-on-one with her students.

I think it's wonderful that those who were educated by us are helping us educate. That is what St. Angela would have wanted; she brought others in, and we do that too.

— Sister Susan Mary

Dolores's Ursuline connections go deep; two of her blood sisters are Ursulines, Sisters Miriam and Diane Therese. Dolores attended St. Robert School, and remembers fondly Sisters James Francis (Anna Margaret Gilbride), Mary Leonard, and Helen Marie, who were three of the founding faculty of St. Robert School.

When Dolores was in 6th grade in 1959, her sister Judith Ann (Sister Miriam) entered the Ursuline community. Not long after, Diane did the same. Dolores remembers monthly trips to the motherhouse to visit her sisters. She also recalls running into Sister James Francis who would greet her as "the Lovely Lady girl." When in 1st grade, Dolores had memorized and recited the Marian poem Lovely Lady Dressed in Blue for the school May crowning. Sister James Francis always remembered her "performance" and loved to remind Dolores of it with the nickname. "It's not bad to be remembered that way," she chuckles.

Dolores often saw Sister Helen Marie with Sister Irene at Ss. Robert and William parish. "Sister Helen Marie is special to me because she's the only one left who remembers the old days at St. Robert."

Dolores attended Villa Angela Academy for high school, then on to Kent State to earn her degree before starting a teaching career. She taught at VA and was involved in student life there, including the annual trip to Washington DC with Sister Naomi and the seniors.

Sister Rosemary Hoge recommended Dolores to the current director of the UIL, Sister Susan Mary Rathbun. Dolores has now been tutoring for the UIL for over 5 years. She also tutored at VASJ when a satellite office existed there.

Both see their work as sharing in the Ursuline educational ministry. They primarily tutor Math, Science, Reading and Life Sciences. Dolores tutored three students who failed Biology at their school. They came feeling defeated, but with her help finally understood the concepts. One stated: "It's not so hard; why did I flunk this?"

Marianne tutors 4th grade through a sophomore in high school. Dolores includes preparing students for ACT exams, and "even did a dental test prep!" She also helps students to prepare for entrance tests into independent high schools, and is currently helping a student prepare for a college entrance exam.

Although there is dedicated space at the Educational Center and will be in the new residence, tutors at times meet students elsewhere, depending on need. For example, Dolores met with a student at the Euclid Public Library, and Marianne met with a student whose mother had a doctor's appointment. She tutored the student at a table in the medical building's atrium. "It's a very portable ministry."

Dolores Pinchot and student

"These two are so flexible!" Sister Susan Mary exclaims. "They can do anything they are asked to do. They are wonderful!"

"It's such a part of me! I didn't realize how much until I was doing it every day," Marianne states. "What's wonderful to me is that I can see that I am meeting students' needs. You can help them understand, and to have them say that, helps you realize they probably slipped through the cracks in the classroom."

Sister Susan Mary is grateful for Dolores, Marianne, and all the tutors who work side by side with her furthering the Ursulines' educational mission. "I think It's wonderful that those who were educated by us are helping us educate. That is what St. Angela would have wanted; she brought others in, and we do that too."

Marianne Sheridan and a student

What's wonderful to me is that I can see that I am meeting students' needs. You can help them understand, and to have them say that, helps you realize they probably slipped through the cracks in the classroom.

— Marianne Sheridan

Construction Project Builds Relationships

Dave DiFrancesco, Sister Susan Durkin and Rex Lewers

The planning associated with building a new home for the Ursuline Sisters has been years in the making, but this past year has been a "roll up your sleeves and get busy" kind of year. It was time for blueprints, land preparation and ground breaking! The Ursuline Construction Committee met regularly all year to keep the project moving and on target. Two of the key players on this committee are, of course, the architect and the builder.

HDS Architecture, formerly Herman Gibans Fodor, Inc., is one of the longest-established architectural firms in Ohio. Since its founding in Cleveland in 1937 the firm has been in continuous practice, interrupted only by the founders' government service during the Second World War. The firm was recommended to the sisters because it specializes in senior and supportive housing. Dave DiFrancesco (the "D" in HDS) is the lead designer and principal-in-charge of this project. Dave became a principal of the firm in 2000 after being an associate since 1993.

The designing of the sisters' new home was a thoughtful, extensive, yet exciting process. Dave considers this project a special one. He states, "When you think of the legacy the sisters have in Cleveland, and what they've gone through as an order, to be able to play a small part in seeing them into their next phase in Northeast Ohio is an awesome thing. It's a milestone project, and we're honored and humbled to be a part of it."

Dave attributes the firm's success in part to the fact that they build relationships and sustain them. He realizes that this project is not like buying a copier for an office. A new home is an enormous once-in-a-lifetime event for the sisters. "In guiding them through the unknown challenges, an honest relationship is important."

The architect and the builder work side by side and a good working, professional relationship between them is important in every project. Dave was very pleased when he heard the Albert M. Higley Co. (amHigley) was hired to construct his design. "We have had the pleasure of working with Higley many times before," he states. "We respect their integrity and collaborative nature."

The Albert M. Higley Co. is one of the most experienced and respected construction firms in Ohio. For nearly a century they have helped their clients realize their goals and visions, while always adhering to their principles of honesty, integrity and mutual respect. Rex Lewers joined the company in 1988 and became a Vice President in 1997.

When you think of the legacy the sisters have in Cleveland, and what they've gone through as an order, to be able to play a small part in seeing them into their next phase in Northeast Ohio is an awesome thing.

It was a recommendation from a staff member at Ursuline College that brought amHigley to submit their proposal for the construction of the new residence. Rex Lewers worked with the college to rebuild the athletic center after a tornado came through in 2013 and destroyed the gym.

"I worked very hard to endear ourselves to make Higley the right choice for the sisters. It was important they feel comfortable with us. I believe it's a good mesh," Rex comments. "The best projects are the ones where the team is unified and marching in the same direction."

As the company boasts on their website and business cards, amHigley is "beyond brick and mortar." Rex explains that Higley's values and vision manifest themselves in a unique interaction with their clients.

"I'm going to be retiring soon and I will miss the day-to-day contact I have will all of my clients, but I think the sisters are going to be people I'm going to try to stay in touch with," Rex comments.

Sister Susan Durkin, President of the Ursuline Sisters, affirms that the sisters couldn't have asked for two better partners in their architect and builder. But most importantly Sister Susan believes both HDS Architecture and amHigley understand the culture of the sisters' shared life as vowed women religious. She states, "We are so pleased to be working with both Dave and Rex. Along with their respective staff members, they have grasped our vision and goals for this new residence. They have designed a building that will not only be efficient and functional but will enhance the lives of the sisters now and in the future."

Sisters Minister Side by Side Together at Regina

Sister Regina Fierman and Sister Donna Mikula

Regina Health Center (RHC) is a continuum of care facility in Richfield, Ohio, where Sister Donna Mikula, an Ursuline (OSU), and Sister Regina Fierman, a Sister of Charity of Saint Augustine (CSA), minister side by side together. Recently the two Sisters reflected on that "side by side" relationship through three lenses: professional, congregational and personal.

The most obvious lens through which to look at their collaboration is that of the responsibilities of their employment, i.e., the professional lens.

At RHC Sister Regina holds the title of Coordinator of Programs and Transportation. As Program Coordinator she arranges for use of rooms, makes sure that required spaces are available for internal and external gatherings, meetings, religious services, etc. She also makes sure that all involved parties are kept up to date regarding the needs related to the room requests – those responsible for food service, maintenance, set up/take down, housekeeping, etc. In her work with transportation Sister Regina coordinates cars and drivers for trips and doctors' appointments. As Coordinator of Programs and Transportation, Sister has her fingers on the pulse of much of the activity that goes on at Regina, and she keeps it straight!

We're all in this together. RHC is not CSA and OSU. It is a single family.

– Sister Regina Fierman

Sister Donna holds the title of Director of Pastoral Care; her multiple responsibilities include annually updating and refreshing the staff on the mission of Regina Health Center, providing for a variety of non-liturgical prayer services and other forms of spiritual enrichment, and taking care of wakes and funerals when such are held at RHC. On a daily basis her concerns focus on addressing the pastoral care of individual residents, provision for daily Masses, and opportunity for sacraments of Reconciliation and Anointing of the Sick. Another aspect of pastoral care is the service offered to any resident who is approaching the final journey of death and dying. Sister is sensitive to the needs of both the resident and the family members who may have come to sit in vigil with the dying. Some of Sister's other pastoral concerns that are distinctly collaborative include participating in plans of care, which are quarterly update meetings on each individual resident's status; in these meetings she works together with a medical data nurse, a social worker, the activities director, family members of the resident, and the resident him/herself if the person should choose to attend. She also participates in monthly Resident Councils, one for the nursing home and one for assisted living. The purpose of these councils is to assure that lines of communication between all staff and residents remain open and clear.

It is obvious, that Sister Regina and Sister Donna both exercise a great deal of collaboration with each other and with their colleagues. Both are generous and efficient and accomplish their professional responsibilities with finesse and compassion. Sister Donna states, "One of the missions of RHC is to enable the individuals to develop their own personal lives in the spirit of community, and certainly Regina here works hard to help all our residents to have community. And they do that not only socially in community but also in prayer. They are also very caring of each other."

There are Ursuline residents who have volunteered here to be on switchboard, to work in gift shop, to assist at activities or help with preparations for a gathering or celebration of some kind. One has become an unofficial resident seamstress helping out when there is a seam to sew up or a button to be sewed on.

– Sister Donna Mikula

But these two Sisters see their work as more than simply a professional collaboration; the side by side relationship can also be seen through a congregational lens. They have a shared history that goes back to the mid nineteenth century. When CSAs came from France in 1851, their housing was not yet ready for occupancy, and they were the guests of the Ursulines for about six months. When two of the original CSAs found it necessary to return to France, their absence left only novices in Cleveland. An Ursuline agreed to transfer to the CSA congregation in order to serve as the first superior for their community. Sister Regina explained, "It's in our genetic makeup from the beginnings [to collaborate with the Ursulines]. We may not have known each other in France, but we certainly got to know each other here." Having said that, Sister Regina and Sister Donna each began to list examples of ministries in which the OSUs and the CSAs have collaborated. Members of the two congregations have ministered together at Holy Family and St. Catherine's and St. Luke's parishes, at Centering Space house of prayer, in the diocesan mission team in El Salvador and a neighborhood ministry in Collinwood, and in the Sisters of Charity Health Care System. Sister Donna and Sister Regina felt that the charisms of both congregations complement each other because both stress the importance of building community and being hospitable to each other and to other people.

Sisters Donna and Regina had no difficulty finding examples of collaboration when looking through professional and congregational lenses, but it was the personal lens that elicited the most energy and colorful examples. Sister Regina states, "There isn't that separation of Ursulines and CSAs or any other community...[Y]ou don't see anybody being excluded. All are part of a family, lay and religious and clergy." Truly the "side by side" experience has been enriching to both of them and to many at Regina Health Center.

Whether looked at through a professional lens or a congregational lens or a personal lens — Side by Side Together? By all means, YES!

Volunteers and Sisters enjoy an Akron Rubber Ducks baseball game as a "Thank You" for their support during the year.

In thanks for their support, volunteers were offered a day at Classic Park and a Captains' game.

It was a big adjustment to go from being a driver to needing one. I was pretty nervous the day my volunteer arrived for our maiden voyage. Brian Miller appeared to be as nervous as I was. I assured him I could drive my wheelchair onto the van and did so. He locked the chair in place and off we went to my appointment. At the end of the day I recognized that having a volunteer driver wasn't so bad. A year later, we've clocked a lot of miles, shared stories about family and lives, solved some of society's problems, discussed spirituality and church, and have laughed more times than I can count. Somewhere in all of that my volunteer driver, Brian Miller, has become my friend. It doesn't get much better than that.
